It might be interesting to see how many of each feature_set ShatteredX chose to include.

Some observations

1. It's a pretty diverse/balanced set which is healthy

2. It agrees nicely with our small feature set which we made quite awhile ago now (before sunshine/rain/midnight), and was our attempt to make a super super compact dataset

3. There's a skew towards more recent releases like midnight and rain, which makes sense because we tried to make those more compact ourselves

4. Poor charisma and strength
