It will stake this week. Was in the same boat last week. IMO the staking payout logic is significantly more confusing than the data science part. Now I am confused cause I have daily returns on my model today. So is that last weeks correlation? since I did not have this on Tuesday last week. What exactly does it mean that there is a round every week but they take a month to resolve?