In the VMC section of the Sharding Specification what is "purity-verified" referring to?

Would a standard approach to verifying the purity of the pure function that is expected to be stored at the Validation Code Address validationCodeAddr simply involve performing a Unit Test to verify its actual outputs are what we expect them to be for given inputs? Or are there other recommended Quality Assurance steps?