How difficult would it be to add a functionality to share a viewing key with another device via a QR code? The way I'm imagining this it would be accessible and cross-compatible on keplr and on the citadel one mobile app, as those seem to be the best wallets depending on what device you are using.

What would this take to implement? Feasibility, challenges?

Have a good day everybody. Happy friday