When you submit, Numerai report validation scores on the same validation set that you are given. So when you train on validation, just ignore the validation scores because they are not meaningful.

As for if people train with the validation data, some people do it and some people don't!