As glp liquidity is growing there are more liquidity then open positions that of course lowers the apy and leave a lot of coins unused.

One thing that can be done is leveraging the extra liquidity and get interest for it (a lot of companies e.g. in the insurance business do that…).

One way we can leverage is for example staking eth and when the liquidity is needed it can be unstaked.