I'm studying an opportunity to use Celestia as the DA layer for a non-Ethereum blockchain. I understand that TIA is used for Celestia fees. So I assume the blockchain project would have to supply a mechanism wherein its native coin, used for its native transaction fees, would be automatically converted to TIA? Is that what's happening with the Polygon integration?