Note that having two chains "secretly" presented to different people (costless simulation) would result in people in support forums and chat not being able to find each others tx hash so likely to be found out in long run.