terence:

In the post EIP-4844 world, builders, not validators, have the final say on the contents of blobs. Builders can choose which blob transactions to include or exclude entirely.

Can you add more clarity around why this is true? Why wouldn't a validator be able to replace blob transactions just like other transactions?