Nerolation:

Notably, as pointed out by Barnabé, censoring builders wouldn't be forced to exit if they can otherwise ensure that their block is full. Thus they would have an incentive to sponsor certain transactions for users just to fill up their blocks.

This assumes an IL design where the builder is allowed to not fulfill the IL if the block is full. You could instead cap the gas limit of the IL and force the builder to include it no matter what.