After reading all the AIPs that have passed and been funded I found it hard to get a good source of what was achieved and what impact was made on the ApeCoin ecosystem.

I have an idea for the ApeCoin team to run a weekly Twitter spaces or Voice Call in Discord to invite one former grant receiver each week.

Some AIPs will have varying degree of success and part of the ethos is to accept that some degree of failure will be expected. That said these calls could have several benefits:

1. Let the community how they have done.

2. Inform people outside of the DAO what we do.

3. Help those who are writing AIPs by understanding issues others have encountered.

4. Potential collaboration between previous grant receivers.

5. Community members maybe able to get involved with the individuals or organizations that received funds to build them better and enhance the ecosystem.

What do others think? I didn't put this in ideas yet as might not be an AIP and could be done by the governance group?
