It is great to see there are some projects migrating to rollups for lower gas fee and faster transaction time. I am pondering on starting a service for new NTF projects to issue and trade NFTs on my rollup (inspired by @vbuterin 's post yesterday). But would the launch of ETH 2.0 pretty much make my project worthless? If the volume of transactions aren't much on rollups, users might just be trade on ETH 2.0 with low fee.

Would really appreciate your guys' input!