I've never had any problems but tonight I have been trying to take out a loan and for whatever reason. Once I click approve on my laptop, it does nothing but attempt to move forward with my transaction. Is there something wrong with the platform tonight? My collateral is aave and Ethereum. I have more than enough available in collateral but for whatever reason, the app is not executing my order