So, at least on the technical side, I know a lot of people are more than a bit stunned (and have been in the past) by the speed of changes in dev progress – it often seems like stuff changes and we only find out about it months later, or we're told up to a deadline that the team's on track to make it and then only later do we find that oh, whoops, deadline wasn't met or features are missing/broken – so, idea. Publish an explorer for your jira/burndown charts. Let us see your actual progress towards release, as it happens.
