Welcome!

This forum is for people that are interested in learning more about what we are building at Aztec and who may want to contribute. Everyone is welcome to observe and participate. For a higher level introduction to Aztec, check out our documentation here.

The Aztec team uses this forum as one way to "build in public". The team discusses design decisions and shares announcements in this forum.

Most of the code that we write can be found publicly on GitHub under the AztecProtocol and noir-lang organizations.

Please review our FAQ and Terms of Service before participating.
