Looks like the first block proposer has been slashed on ETH2 for double-proposing.

https://beaconscan.com/slots-slashed

Theoretically, there could be several reasons:

- a client crashed and lost state, then proposed the same block

- two copies of the same client have been executed (buggy devops script?)

- client software bug

- a malicious client

Opinions ?)