This can also flip the p-1 attack around. It would be easier for the would be attackers to just hold the token rather than submit junk models with this approach. They would be contributing by being another token holder instead of just parasitic to this ecosystem.