Yes, this is confusing. They also change from bloomberg_ticker to numerai_ticker, prediction to signal recently on submission example. This really messes up proper mapping most specially if we are incorporating from different data sources. I know it is still a big work in progress but I hope they have better revision management/messaging and up to date consistent links to its universe / targets.