I've enjoyed my early days here in the discourse, however, I am quite disappointed to see a number of contributors using threads to bicker with each other. There is a very big difference between respectful, professional challenge and disrespectful, accusatory outbursts.

I'm relatively new here and I can tell you first hand that it is off-putting and unwelcoming. If you so eagerly wish the DAO to grow and to welcome new members here, good housekeeping and a dose of maturity wouldn't go amiss.

Can I suggest that we drop the egos and instead get back to objectively (not emotionally) discussing the merits of ideas and proposals.