I don't expect that anyone at Numerai will give you any of the data you're asking for. However, I have found that if you compare all samples in era X with all samples in era X+1 you can generally find the one that is surprisingly similar to all the others. In an L2 norm sense.