It was mentioned in telegram that proposals that could benefit the LIDO protocol could be posted here.

How about instead of either (i) farming, which will only bring in whales to dump on eventual bagholders with no interest in governance; or (ii) a simple DEX listing that will only bring you apes looking for a quick flip that are also not interested in governance, you instead do a BADGER style targeted airdrop to your ideal DAO participants (similar to what they did, you can select the relevant criteria for what would qualify someone for the airdrop based on their past actions - for instance noting the validator onboarding questionnaire, one factor could be past use of the ethereum test nets).

Although this is not as easy an option as simply adding some liquidity on a DEX or doing some farming incentive, this would likely create much more value for the protocol and bring in the DAO members that will be of most benefit.
